Fund manager commentary

December was marked by political events which were received positively by the markets. Relief was provided by agreement on a deal in the trade dispute between China and the USA, and the Conservatives' clear victory in the UK elections. As a result, the markets were once again determined by corporate and macro data. The focus will be on company results in January and, above all, the outlook for 2020. Hopes for the next year rest on additional government action and increases in government expenditure in Europe and on continued stable consumption in the USA, in addition to a reinvigorated global trade. As a result of the positive market trend, the fund delta rose to 46.
